AfterWords to Present at the National Restaurant Association Show

Tampa, FL (March 7, 2017) – AfterWords, an intelligent customer engagement and survey software, announced today that it will be formally releasing its software platform at the National Restaurant Association Show. The National Restaurant Association Show is held annually and showcases technology, supplies, tools, and other items related to the hotel, restaurant, and hospitality industry. This year the show will be held at the McCormick Place Convention Center in Chicago, IL on May 20-23.

“We are excited to be releasing our software at the NRA 2017 Show,” said Drew Peloubet, CEO of AfterWords. “We have positive results from our pilot rollout with a national franchise concept and have received pre-market interest from many restaurant and retail organizations.”

About AfterWords

AfterWords is an intelligent customer engagement and survey system that delivers questions based on transactional history. We integrate sales transaction and customer loyalty data to only ask the most relevant questions about a customer’s unique experience. Our patent pending process provides more relevant data, results in less survey abandonment, and provides actionable Insights. Discover what your customers really think using AfterWords.
